Shelton State Celebrates Black History Month

African American Community Leaders Honored

On January 17, Shelton State held a special performance and reception of Theatre Tuscaloosa's production of "Lady Day at Emerson's Bar and Grill" in recognition of Black History Month and to honor leaders of the West Alabama African-American community. The event was a lovely evening and quite special, according to Dr. Cordell Wynn, special assistant to the president. The evening was a special event of Martin Luther King "Realizing the Dream" Lecture Series.

George as part of the Terrific Tuesday Concert Series. It will be held at 1 p.m. in the Alabama Power Recital Hall on the Martin Campus. Stillman students performing are Lillian Taylor, soprano; Darrius Nix, tenor; Steven Onukwuli, baritone; and Jonevica Smith mezzo soprano.

Special Speakers Scheduled

On Tuesday, February 19, Mason Bonner, director of admissions from Stillman College, will be the speaker at a special program for students. The program will be held in the D Rooms by the cafeteria.

Philip Coleman, director of adult recruiting, will be a speaker on Tuesday, February 26, beginning at 11:45 a.m. in the cafetorium on the Fredd Campus. Coleman, who has been a television news anchor for years, will talk about "African-Americans and the Mass Media. Students and faculty are invited to come and join Coleman during their lunch hour.

Music Concerts Scheduled

Shelton State has scheduled several events in February to coincide with the college's Black History Month Activities.

On Tuesday, February 12, the Shelton Jazz Band, under the direction of Alabama Blackshear, entertained audiences in the Atrium with a Mardi Gras New Orleans jazz concert as part of the weekly Terrific Tuesday Concert Series.

On Tuesday, February 26, the Stillman music department will present a concert at Shelton under the direction of Dr. Roderick

Shelton Athletic Department Joins University for Program

On February 20, the Shelton athletic department will join the University of Alabama for a Black History Month Celebration. Dr. Richard Lapchick, human rights activist, pioneer for racial equality, internationally recognized expert on sports issues, scholar and author will be the speaker. Lapchick is the founder and director of the Center for the Study of Sport in Society at Northeastern University. He served as the American leader of the international campaign to boycott south Africa in sports for more than 20 years. For additional information on the program, call

ANNUAL CAREER FAIR SCHEDULE

Mark your calendars! Shelton's annual Career Fair will again be held this spring, bigger and better than ever in order to serve Shelton State's growing student population. The fair will be held on March 6 from 9 a.m. - noon.

According to Shirley Johnson, chair of the event, the fair is an opportunity for employers and for students to make contact with one another. "We schedule the fair near the time of graduation as students begin the process of looking for job. We encourage students to bring their resumes with them. If students are not sure about how to write a resume, they should stop by the Counseling Center, and I will be glad to help them," said Johnson.

ETIQUETTE DINNER PLANNED LEARN PROFESSIONAL BUSINESS ETIQUETTE AND PROTOCOL

Have you ever wondered if you are using the right fork when you are out to dinner? Are your table manners up to par when you are with a client or business leader? Are you afraid your social graces, or the lack of, may be holding you back in your career?

The Shelton State Alumni Association is sponsoring an Etiquette Dinner on Tuesday, March 19, from 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. at the President's Pavilion located on the University of Alabama campus. These issues and more will be addressed during the two-hour event.

Virginia (Gina) Johnson, director of Auxiliary Services at the University will be the leader for the evening. Mrs. Johnson is certified in dining etiquette training and a graduate of a special training program, "The Graces and the Gentle-Man."

The evening includes a great dinner as well as the seminar. The cost is $20 which includes the dinner and course. Call the Shelton State Alumni office, ext. 2221 or 2252.

Reservations must be made by Friday, March 15. Seating is limited.

Shelton Hosts National Math Workshop

Shelton State was selected one of three sites nationwide to host the Addison Wesley Math and Statistic Workshop which will be held on February 16 from 8:30 a.m. - 2:45 p.m.

Guest speakers include nationally recognized authors Mario Triola from Dutches Community College, Nate Richey from Youngstown State University, and John Hornsby from the University of New Orleans.
